What Is Going On Tonight
Knights of Pythias, Natchaw lodge, No. 22, meets at 807 Main street.
Independent Order of Foresters, Court Fabre, No. 2495, meets at 25 Jackson street.

A large signal box was tested out Saturday by men in the employ of the Southern New England Telephone company and will be in use during this week. The box was installed by the women last week but has been placed in charge of the police department yet. The signal box is connected with the private wire at the police station and when the officer at the station desires to reach the office on the city belt a connection is made, lighting a red light over the box and setting the bell connected with the box in motion. The connection is made directly from the telephone exchange and when the officer on duty answers, Central connects him with the police station. When the operator calls the police station and receives answer a connection is made with the signal box and when the answer comes in, the light is switched off and the bell stopped.

The installation of the police signal box followed a vote to that effect at a meeting of the common council several months ago. Investigations of various forms of signals were made and the Western Electric system was chosen. If the signal box proves a success additional boxes will be installed at corners in other sections of the city. The present box is at the corner of Main and Railroad streets.

Weddings took a month off during March and only three weddings were recorded at the office of the town clerk. These were:

1—Horace C. Tryhall and Bessie E. Plumb, by Rev. A. D. Carpenter.
14—Michael Connel and Josephine O'Brien, by Rev. John E. Clark.

23—Charles A. Steadman and Alice Nichols, by Rev. A. D. Carpenter.
One reason for the delay was that Lent did not end until the 27th and in the Catholic church marriages are not solemnized during Lent, except by special dispensation.

Mrs. Deborah Kuzs Livingston, of Providence, R. I., who is to speak at the Windham High school auditorium Wednesday night under the auspices of the Windham County W. C. T. U., will have for her subject, "Citizenship." Mrs. Livingston for many years has been a prominent believer in the betterment of women and at present is head of the department of citizenship in the National W. C. T. U.

"Mrs. Briggs of the Poultry Yard" a play that has met with success in various communities in New England met with favor in the city Saturday night when presented at the Methodist Episcopal church by seven members of the Methodist society. The play was given under the direction of W. H. Parkhurst. Music for the evening was furnished by the Mansfield Trio, consisting of Misses Lillian Nichols, flute and Miss Hazel J. Nichols, pianist.

After several weeks of hard practice Windham High is ready to meet Putnam High school for the first baseball game of the season. The game is scheduled to be played in Willimantic Friday afternoon of this week. A game was scheduled for last Saturday with the Varsity school of New London but was called off by the New London manager several days ago, no reason being given for the sudden decision.

Members of the executive committee of the Union Franco American of Connecticut and officers of other French organizations of the city met at the home of Connell Flommond, on Main street Sunday afternoon. Matter of interest to the various societies were discussed.

er Dolls has decided to have the dolls awarded at the charity dance to be held at the state armory this week. There is to be no more canvassing for funds for funds for the dolls.

There was a large attendance at the Valley street armory Sunday afternoon to hear E. H. Boyd of Chicago, lecture on "The World's Judgment Day and Millions Now Living Will Never Die." The meeting was public.

William C. Whitney of Springfield, Mass., was the speaker at the Sunday meeting of the First Spiritualist society. It was the last engagement of the season with the local society.

Rev. John Pearce, new pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church filled the pulpit at that church for the morning service Sunday. A large congregation attended the meeting following the service to reach the office on the city belt a connection is made, lighting a red light over the box and setting the bell connected with the box in motion. The connection is made directly from the telephone exchange and when the officer on duty answers, Central connects him with the police station. When the operator calls the police station and receives answer a connection is made with the signal box and when the answer comes in, the light is switched off and the bell stopped.

The Emerald basketball team, which closed its 1921 season recently, completed a season's record few teams in the state have. Using practically the same lineup throughout the season they won 23 of the 33 games played and scored 1219 points to the 511 scored by their opponents. Other cities with an important record are perhaps show a record as good but when it is considered that only a few important men were seen in the local lineup during the year the record is a noteworthy one.

Other teams in the state have won over the Emerald but with men who are imports from outside the state, they could not be considered representative teams of Connecticut. Barring the teams that imported players, the Emerald have set a record for a state team that looks good to sport followers in this section.

The meeting of the Men's Forum of the First Congregational church, held Sunday noon at the Gresham club rooms was one of the most interesting of the year. Members brought up for discussion the subject of constructive legislation for social welfare, now before the general assembly. Some of the points discussed were as follows: Juvenile Courts and Bureau of Child Welfare, the Protection of Women and Children in Industry, Temperance and Sunday Legislation. The meeting was the largest of the year.

There were no arrests over the week end. Chief of Police Daniel J. Killourey stated Sunday that April stood a good chance of being the quietest month of the year in the history of the police department. There was only one minor offense.

WESTERLY

An explosion caused by a dynamite bomb exploded at the house at 25 Pleasant street, about 11:50 o'clock Sunday morning, roused the northern section of the town, but the people in the house did not realize their danger and it was not until Sunday morning that the plot was discovered. The house is occupied by three families, and the only occupant who heard the blast was Mrs. Jennie Truham, on the first floor. She thought it was a peal of thunder and did not investigate. The house is also occupied by Hester Boff, foreman of the Westerly fire train, who had been in the house on Sunday morning.

The Westerly group of former Wallingford students, inspired by what similar groups are doing in other places, plan to have some small part in the raising of the $2,000 Westerly mental fund.
